C. F. RICHARDS TO HEAD INDEPENDENT TICKET

Antioch Implement Dealer to Be Candidate for Village President.

Woman Is Candidate for Treasurer.

Chas. F. Richards, Antioch implement dealer and for many years town clerk, will be a candidate for village president at the election April 19. Mr. Richards' running mates on the independent ticket will be Frank Dunn, Jacob Drom, R. A. Shultis and J. R. Cribb for trustees and Mrs. Leonela Stephenson for treasurer, according to a petition now being circulated to secure signatures of the requisite five per cent of voters within the village.

Messrs. Dunn, Drom and Shultis are candidates for re-election, each for full term, according to the petition, and Mr. Cribb is a candidate to fill vacancy made by the resignation of Trustee S. E. Pollock who is a candidate for village president on the People's ticket. Aldermanic candidates on the People's ticket have not been named as yet, but boosters for the new ticket have given the assurance that a full set of candidates will be presented for approval or rejection by the voters of the village on election day.

With the election only four weeks in the future, boosters for the various candidates no doubt will soon be busy setting forth their claims for preferment at the polls on April 19.

PAVING APPROVED AT HARMONIOUS MEETING

Victoria and Hardin Streets to Have 25 Ft. Pavement—Lake Street Assessment Is Approved.

Approval of payment plans for Victoria and Hardin streets was effected at a very harmonious meeting of property owners and the village board of local improvements at the village hall Tuesday night. The hearing was attended by more than thirty who are interested in seeing the improvement completed this year. The plans provide for a 26 ft. pavement, over all, or a driveway of 25 ft. and 6 in. allowed for curbing on either side. There was some talk presenting a petition to the village board to have the width of the paving increased to 30 ft., but no such petition was presented Tuesday.

Paving to Cost $31,050.50.

The cost of the improvement, according to figures submitted by J. A. Tolson, of the Central Engineering Co., of Elgin, Ill., will be $31,050.50. No objections being heard at the meeting, the village board of trustees then went into session and passed the ordinance authorizing the bond issue to cover the cost of the paving in the amount named in estimate. W. F. Ziegler is now preparing the assessment. The matter now awaits the approval of the county court.

The assessment roll for the Lake street paving, which Mr. Ziegler has just completed, was approved.

Frick Made Gallant Fight for Life

Young Man Dies Thursday After 108 Hours of Artificial Respiration.

UNUSUAL CASE WAS OF NATIONAL PROMINENCE

Funeral services for Alfred Frick, 22, until recently employed in the Merchandise Sales Department of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois at Park Ridge, were held from the home of his parents in Crystal Lake, Sunday afternoon, March 13, at 2 o'clock. Rev. R. W. Putnam of the Crystal Lake Methodist Episcopal church officiated. Burial was in Union cemetery, Crystal Lake. The services were attended by scores of Public Service Company employees from Evanston and Park Ridge as well as a number of the company officials from Chicago. Six young men all of whom had aided Frick in his gallant fight for life, were pallbearers.

Frick's case sprang into national prominence when it became known that he was being kept alive by artificial respiration administered by fellow employees of the Public Service Company, (who are trained regularly in resuscitation and First Aid methods) following paralysis of his diaphragm Sunday morning, March 6. On Saturday he had become seriously ill and was taken to the St. Francis hospital in Evanston, where his illness was diagnosed as Landry's paralysis.

At 10 o'clock Sunday morning he ceased breathing, but was kept alive for 108 hours and 12 minutes by artificial respiration. More than 50 employees of the Public Service Company, organized in shifts and working pairs, were constantly beside the stricken man, compressing and releasing his lungs in regular cadence similar to that natural respiration.

Thursday night, however, it became evident that Frick would be unable to survive the paralytic stroke, although until that time physicians had believed it possible that his remarkable endurance would carry him through.

His death occurred at 12 minutes after 10, Thursday night, March 10.

Farmers Are "Wheat Between Millstones," Says Fowler in Letter

March 15, 1927.

Mr. Frank T. Holt,
President Milk Producers Ass'n.
9 S. Clinton Street,
Chicago, Illinois.

My dear Frank:

I see by papers forwarded to me in California, where I spent my vacation, that you have again been elected to do "cart horse" work for the Milk Producers Association. I surely congratulate the Association on your selection and condole with them that you were ever not more closely connected with it right along.

I note by the Antioch News last week that the Pure Milk Association "refused to consider the thought of the word 'merger' or 'consolidation'" on the ground that a merging carried with it the condition that both organizations, must in such an agreement surrender or lose their identity and come out under a new order, name, etc.

Also, the article states that under the injunction of the Board of Directors of the Milk Producers Association:

"That a Committee of Five be appointed to consider and agree upon a set of recommendations to offer the Board of Directors," could not be complied with for some reason not stated.

The article did not say that the representatives of the two associations met in personal conference. If this is true, it was a grave mistake not so to do.

With the dairyman suffering as he has suffered for years from every kind of a possible bad situation, it is no time for committees representing milk producers' organizations to stand on technicalities and not try in every possible way to find a common ground upon which they can

MICKIE SAYS—

WELL, I'M SORRY IF FOLKS ARE GOING OVER TO BIGTOWN TO BUY THINGS THEY COULD BUY OF YOU, MR. MERCHANT, BUT IS IT THEIR BUSINESS TO KNOW YOU HAVE THESE THINGS IN YOUR STORE, OR YOURS TO SEE THAT THEY KNOW? IF I WUZ RUNNING A SHOP I'D NEVER GIVE 'EM A CHANCE TO FORGET ME

Aged Resident Dies Friday

Mrs. Henry Pitman, 75, Passes Away After Lingered Illness.

The community of Antioch was saddened to learn of the death of Mrs. Henry Pitman who passed away at her home on Victoria street, Friday, March 11, after a lingering illness.

Elizabeth Ann Hucker was born on August 14, 1852, at Somersetshire, England, and came to America with her parents in 1861, settling near Fox Lake.

She was married to Henry Pitman, December 1, 1872, and has lived her entire married life in the township of Antioch moving to the village of Antioch twenty-four years ago, where she has since lived. To this union four children were born: George H., Mrs. R. A. Shultis and Earl, all of Antioch, one daughter, Mrs. Thos. Brompton having preceded her mother in death.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband and children besides a host of friends.

The funeral services were held at the home at two o'clock with Rev. Kahl officiating. Burial was in the Antioch Hillside cemetery.

meet and do something for "the kernel of wheat between the mill stones"—the dairy farmer.

If the committees have not formally met, then they should meet and strive to arrive at some satisfactory basis of getting together, whether it be called a "merger," a "consolidation," a "league," an "order," a "company," "incorporation," etc.

It surely is not the thing to permit a name to stand in the way of really attempting to get all producers to stand together as one great army to try and relieve the dairy farmer of this unfair load he has carried for years.

While I am not in the dairy business and may never be again, yet I realize as well as any man supplying, or who ever did supply milk to Chicago, the difficulties to contend with. I only wish it were in my power to do something to get the too long delayed justice for the "bleeding" milk producers.

If members of the Milk Producers Association or the Pure Milk Association can get together with the "ducking," "aide stepping," "shifty," "domineering" milk buyers of Chicago, who always stand together, and go through the regular ordeal they must go through to get anything—at any time—there surely should be no difficulty for men in the same line of endeavor to get together for their mutual benefit.

Great Nations condescend to admit they stand ready to confer, and reconfer on matters of World importance. To see the present situation as between brothers in blood, where names seem to spill so much milk—is an apparent effort to maintain dignity at the further expense of the oppressed milk producer.

With kind personal regards and trusting that something can be done to get all interests together for a common good, I am,

Yours very truly,
Frank T. Fowler.

NEW TRIER FIVE COPS TOURNAMENT TITLE

Nixon Chosen for Both First and Second "All Tournament Teams."

Schwenk Close Second in Scoring Honors.

Deerfield Eliminates Antioch, 27-19; Gurnee Takes Third Place.

For the eighth time in as many years, the New Trier high school's basketball team won the Northwestern Illinois tournament Saturday night by defeating Deerfield, 21 to 19, before a crowd of over 1800, at the Waukegan high school gym.

To win the title New Trier eliminated Evanston, Gurnee and Deerfield. Deerfield had defeated Antioch 27 to 19, in the afternoon game and the locals were out of the running so far as first place was concerned.

Saturday Scores.

Deerfield 27; Antioch 19.
New Trier, 37; Gurnee, 8.
Gurnee, 26; Antioch, 22.
New Trier, 21; Deerfield, 19.

One thing that had sapped Deerfield's chance was the fact that Antioch went into the semi-finals with everything they had and gave the Highland Parkers a battle of a century according to a sports writer in the Waukegan Sun.

In Antioch's desperate battle for a battle for a victory over Deerfield, the boys from west burned out their chance for third place in the tournament. When they took the floor against Gurnee in the first game for Saturday night, young Nixon, the All Tournament forward was about helpless. There is no attempt to detract from Gurnee's victory, but even though Gurnee played a whale of a game, they would have had tougher sledding against Antioch had the Antioch boys been less worn out.

Gurnee carried the lead all the way through in the third place game as they had not battled desperately against New Trier, being content with third place, and the players were in condition to stand the strain of the evening game. Dixon, starting forward for Gurnee, was the scoring ace while McClure and Gillings, alternating forward, pressed him closely. On the Antioch side, where Nixon generally does most of the scoring the burden fell on Schwenk, center, and he did his best. Wilson, a guard also flashed a good game.

"All Tournament Teams."
First Team.

R.F.—W. Paletti, New Trier.
L.F.—W. Mellin, Evanston.
C.—Hoerber, New Trier.

R.G.—Daugherty, Deerfield.
I.G.—Nixon, Antioch.

Second Team.

R.F.—Nixon, Antioch.
L.F.—Heineman, Deerfield.
C.—Thomas, Deerfield.
R.G.—Levandusky, Waukegan.
I.G.—Copeland, Deerfield.

The above "All Tournament Teams," selected by Lange and Reese, the officials who worked the district basketball tournament at the Waukegan high school gym Thursday, Friday and Saturday, are the official all star teams of the tournament, but, according to the basketball precepts of those who watched the tournament from the Press table is a bit jammed up, more or less similar to the officiating of the two men who worked the games.

The following comment regarding players selected for "all tournament" honors appeared in the Waukegan Sun:

There is no doubt about the ability of all the men picked. The Sun sports named practically the same men on his team, but named them in more natural positions. He also suggested most of them to the officials picking the teams. Here is our dope on "who's who" in the tournament.

W. Paletti, of New Trier can't be kept off the first team. Nixon, of Antioch, whose reputation was shaken in the Gurnee game for third place, should also make the first team because in the Gurnee game he was "bushed." The Sun places

Civil War Veteran Answers Final Call

Reubin Clark Jones, 82, Buried at Grayslake Tuesday.

Reubin Clark Jones was born Nov. 15, 1844 on the old Jones homestead east of Loon Lake—government land upon which his father, Clark Jones, had settled in 1843. His first home was a log cabin and his first schooling was obtained in a little log school house with puncheon floor and slab seats, the first teacher of which was a half-breed Indian named William Jones.

At the time of the Civil War, with three of his brothers serving in the Union army, he himself, after some difficulty in getting himself accepted on account of his age, enlisted at the age of eighteen in the Seventeenth Illinois Cavalry. After a time he was obliged to return home on account of illness, but after his recovery he re-enlisted in the service, this time in the Ninety-sixth Illinois Infantry. He was engaged in service in Missouri and participated in several engagements with the rebel army.

Practically all of Mr. Jones' life was spent in the vicinity of Antioch, until about four or five years ago, when he removed to Grayslake, where he resided at the time of his death which occurred March twelfth after an illness of about three weeks. The funeral service was held at the Congregational church in Grayslake, March 15, Rev. S. E. Pollock officiating and members of the G. A. R. and American Legion participating in the services and with taps and firing of a salute at the grave.

He leaves behind him his wife, his daughter and grandson, three sisters and numerous other relatives.

HENNINGS WILL OPEN RECREATION PARLOR

Leases Gollwitzer Building for New Place of Business—Will Open Next Month.

A new place of business is to be established in Antioch early next month by C. E. Hennings, who has leased the Gollwitzer building, former location of the Uptown market, where he will operate a recreation parlor. The front portion of the building will be devoted to fountain service, tobacco and candy sales and news stand, billiard and pocket billiard tables are being installed in the rear.

Part of the equipment is already in and Mr. Hennings hopes to have the place in readiness for business in the very near future.

Mrs. Robert Smart underwent an operation at the West Side hospital, in Chicago, Monday morning. At present she is doing nicely.

him at forward, believing that as a guard his size would be against him. Our second team would have Johnson, of Deerfield, and Holland, of Evanston, in at forwards, Thomas, of Deerfield, at center, Levandusky, of Waukegan, as running guard and Copeland, of Deerfield, as back guard. Copeland was given a close run for the job by Simpson, of Antioch, who played a regulation back guard game, taking the ball off the back board every time the opposing team shot at it. Simpson's uncertain passing was all that kept him off the honor team. We place Johnson at forward in place of Nixon, a sit is not customary to place one man on two teams as the official staff has done.

Schwenk Makes High Score to Cop Second Place.

W. Paletti, flashy forward on the title winning team, led the scoring for the entire tournament, with Schwenk of Antioch a close second for the scoring honors.

To cop the honors Paletti dropped in 12 field goals and 6 free throws. Schwenk, lanky Antioch center, evened him up on field goals with a dozen good ones, but he only made 1 free toss. Dixon, Gurnee forward scored 9 baskets and 5 gratis points. Nixon, the "pint size" Antioch forward who pressed Mellin for the honor of the biggest star in the tournament, made 5 baskets and 10 free tosses for a total of 20 points.

APRIL MONTH OF MANY ELECTIONS

Terms of 16 Supervisors of County

Expire This Spring—Naber Is Without Opposition.

Village and School Elections Also in April.

April, as usual, is to be a month of many elections this year. Four times will voters here be called upon to register their choice for township, village and school district officials.

First to occupy the minds of the voters will be the annual town election on April 5, at which time one supervisor is to be elected to fill the only vacancy occurring in the township this year.

Naber Is Only Candidate.

In Lake county 16 supervisors and assistants are to be elected at the forthcoming election, and 18 members of the county body are hold-overs from last year who will watch the race of their colleagues who are out for seats again. Seven of the sixteen candidates are to have opposition.

Barney F. Naber, Antioch's supervisor has clear sailing, at least thus far, in his candidacy for re-election. For some weeks past it was rumored that Wm. A. Rosling would be a candidate for the office of supervisor, as many of his friends were urging him to throw his hat into the ring, but Mr. Rosling settled the matter definitely yesterday when he explained to friends that he was not to be a candidate. Mr. Rosling appreciates the efforts of his friends in his behalf, but—"I am not a candidate," he said. Thus it would seem that Mr. Naber will have no difficulty in retaining his office.

Many Town Officers Hold Over.

With the exception of supervisor all other Antioch township officers are good for from one to three more years in office. C. F. Richards was elected clerk in 1926, as was also Assessor Harold Gelstrup. Highway commissioner Frank Dunn was elected for a four year term in 1924, and Tom Burnett and Stanley Thompson, constables, and J. C. James and Samuel Tarbell, Justices of the peace, were elected in 1925 for four year terms.

Village Election April 19.

Interesting things are promised for the annual village election, April 19, as two slates of candidates are being groomed to fill the vacancies occurring in village offices this year. Present indications are that the village election will be a hotly contested affair.

School Elections April 9.

The date of school elections both for the grade school district No. 34, and also for the township high school, will be the second Saturday in April, the 9th. Three are to be elected to fill vacancies on the grade school board, two directors for three year terms and president for one year term. Those whose terms expire are President S. E. Pollock, and directors Mrs. Warriner and Mrs. Alvers.

Two members of the high school board of education are to be elected at the April election for three year terms, the terms of President A. M. Tiffany and John A. Thain, expiring this spring. Both have been members of the board since organization of the high school district and both are candidates for re-election, it is understood. Other members of the high school board are Arthur Simpson, Frank Kennedy and Delbert B. Sablin, secretary.

BUSINESS CLUB HAS ENJOYABLE MEETING

Members of the Antioch Business Club enjoyed a fine dinner at the Antioch Cafe Monday evening. An interesting film, supplied by the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., was shown. No business was transacted at the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Peterson and daughter, Dolly, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Steninger motored to Winsor, Wis., Saturday spending over Sunday at the home of Mrs. Herman Fox.

Wilmot News

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Holdorf and Mrs. Frank Kruckman attended the cooking demonstration at Richmond, Friday.

Mrs. Lewis, of Silver Lake, spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. Frank Boroughs.

Among those who attended the card party given by the Eastern Star were: Mr. and Mrs. Harry MacDougall, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Holdorf, Mr. and Mrs. Sutchiff, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Carey.

Walter Frank, of North Brook, spent the week end in Wilmot.

Mrs. Charley Kanis was in Kenosha, Tuesday.

Mrs. Jim Carey attended a birthday party in Silver Lake last week. Arthur Holdorf and George Smith were in Racine, Saturday.

Mrs. Fred Frank and Sophia Holdorf were in Kenosha, Tuesday.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Meyers were: Mr. and Mrs. John Meyers Sr., Mr. and Mrs. John Meyers Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. A. Meyers. The guests were from Racine and Kenosha.

A play entitled "The Bashful One" will be given by the Silver Lake P. T. A. at the Wilmot gymnasium Friday, March 18.

Mr. John Murrin, of Janesville, spent several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Murrin Sr.

The regular meeting of the Wilmot P. T. A. was held at the gymnasium Thursday. A very good program was given by the students and Mr. Mulder.

The Fred Sentra Post No. 361 is giving a dance at the Trevor hall, Friday, March 18.

Ben Kanis was in Hebron, Sunday on business.

"Wilmot Drugs," a newly formed basketball team, won its first victory Saturday morning by defeating the fast Kenosha High second team by a score of 28-22. The boys found the going somewhat rough on the high Kenosha floor, and the pace set by the Kenosha lads soon had the Drug boys puffing for want of breath, but a strong comeback in the last minutes of play brought victory to the Drugs. Shubert Frank and George Richter led in the scoring. Letting and Jurevick held the guard posts, and Don Herreck showed flashes of nautical form at center. Another game will be played with the same team Wednesday afternoon.

High School Notes

The Cavaliers presented their first program at the P. T. A. meeting Thursday evening before a large crowd, with pronounced success. The program consisted of a male quartet, composed of Norton Bassett, Eugene Frank, Charles Jurevick, and Mr. Mulder, a one act play, "An Economical Housewife," and a negro monologue by Charles Jurevick. The play scored a big hit, especially because of the fact that boys played the female roles, and did it well.

The second edition of the Sophomore Broadcaster was issued Friday afternoon.

Mr. Schurr returned to his duties Monday morning after an absence of a week.

After much discussion the Senior Class adopted as its class play for the year, "Blow Your Own Horn." This is a play which has only been recently published, and is very difficult to stage. The work will begin immediately, and should everything work out well, the play promises to be an unusual success.

Preparations are under way for the Annual Junior Prom, which will be given in the early part of May. Ruth Stoen, president of the class, has appointed all the committees, and judging by the enthusiasm shown in the class meeting, the Prom this year will be a gala affair.

WHEN RADIO TURNS NAVIGATOR

Radio Direction Finder Guides and Locates Vessels at Sea in Fair and Foul Weather.

"Unable to give position—last bearings taken three days ago—we're lost!"

Thus reads the terse but dramatic message from a ship in distress. Out in the blackness of the night, pitching and tossing on waves stirred to a frenzy by the wintry gale, are fellow mariners and passengers, far off the traveled ocean lanes and all but lost save for the slender thread of radio communication.

"Keep sending us test signals," flashes back our operator. "Will locate by direction finder." And so the latest wonder of marine radio and the newest aid to modern navigation is brought into play.

Soon our operator is at the radio direction finder in the pilot house. A moment later he is wearing the headphones and manipulating the receiver dials. He begins turning the hand-wheel, which serves to swing the small loop frame on the deck above into the very teeth of the angry gale. The operator listens intently; the captain and other silently stand nearby; the swings of the hand wheel become shorter and shorter. Here it is—the line of signals—the direction of their passage through space from the radiating point! But on which side of our ship—in what sense? Now the operator throws a switch, swings the hand-wheel again. The swings become shorter until they virtually stop. The operator now bends down as he peers through a magnifying glass, squinting an eye so as to line up the parallel lines which will give an accurate reading from the compass card below. Then he gives the reading to the pilot of the ship. A few moments later this course is changed, and the ship throbs to the command of full speed ahead in the face of a heavy sea.

How Compass Works

One hour, two hours, three hours—and our ship comes within searchlight range of the vessel in distress. A rescue is out of the question in such a rough sea, but we stand-by, ready to act if absolutely necessary.

Just as the dog turns his ears in determining the direction of sounds, so does the radio direction finder turn its loop to get a bearing on a given transmitter. This ingenious radio device operates on the principle that a given signal of maximum intensity will be received with a loop so placed that its plane is pointing at the radio station which is transmitting. If, on the other hand, the plane of the loop lies at right angles to the direction of the radio transmitter, no energy is picked up and nothing can be heard in the earphones. The position at which the signal drops out, or so-called minimum, is well defined and is employed in reading the direction of the transmitting station from the compass card.

The standard marine direction finder, as now installed on many ships, is entirely self-contained and occupies less than two square feet of floor space, in the pilot house or chart room. On the deck, above the pilot house or chart room, is the sturdy tripod frame supporting the loop which is encased in bakelite tubing with aluminum alloy fittings. The protective tubing of the loop measures 4½ inches in diameter, while the loop measures 30 inches on a slide A 2 to 1 reduction gear, operating by the vertical hand-wheel, serves to swing the loop in all directions, even in high gales, without backlash or interference.

Service Now Universal

So important is the direction finder in navigation that radio beacons, like lighthouses and lightships, have come into existence along our coasts as in failible guides to coastwise and transoceanic and lake navigators. These radio beacons, operated by the U. S. Lighthouse Service, now extend up and down the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, along the Gulf of Mexico, and on the Great Lakes, as well as in Alaska and Hawaii.

Operated on regular schedule, the radio beacons are also pressed into service when weather conditions warrant steady operation. Operating on 1,000 meters wavelength assigned for such radio transmission by international regulation, the ICW or interrupted-continuous wave transmitters employed send out signals that vary in note and in character, so that each beacon may be readily identified. Heretofore, all radio beacons have been operated at the same time, causing considerable and troublesome interference because of the unified wavelength. This interference has been eliminated, however, through the use of synchronized clock switches, which now cause each radio beacon to transmit alone for a given time, so that just one beacon will be sending out direction-finding signals in a given locality.

Invariably, navigators are enthusiastic in their praise of the direction finder, which, in many cases, has taken precedence over the time-honored sextant in determining a ship's position, even when ideal weather prevailed," according to T. M. Stevens of the Radio Corporation of America. "In foggy and cloudy weather, of course, the radio direction finder serves to solve what has hitherto been a serious predicament. Where soundings are impractical along steep coasts, because of great depths a short distance off shore, navigators have used the radio direction finder and their known speed in guiding their ships along.

A TABLOID HISTORY OF THE RADIO

Great Industry Traced From Its Beginning Shows Remarkable Growth.

In theory, radio is old; in practice, it is still very young.

Over eighty years ago Joseph Henry demonstrated at Princeton that under certain conditions electrical effects are oscillatory, or vibratory, and that these oscillatory effects can be transmitted over considerable distances. Others studied these effects. Numerous experiments were conducted.

Decades later, Professor Heinrich Hertz of Germany demonstrated in a striking manner how the discharge of an electrical condenser sets up invisible waves, and how these waves can be detected several feet distant. That was in 1887. Several years later, Professor Righi of Italy undertook the study of Hertzian waves.

In Righi's laboratory there chanced to be a young student named Guglielmo Marconi, who became intensely interested in the work. He saw a possibility of applying these invisible or Hertzian waves to telegraphy without wires. Soon Marconi was conducting extensive experiments on his father's estate. From a few feet he soon advanced his wireless jumps to miles, using an upright wire and ground connection at the transmitting and receiving ends. From a laboratory experiment, Marconi's efforts passed over to the commercial stage, mainly in England. Year by year Marconi spanned greater distances, while numerous steamships were equipped with wireless apparatus to work in conjunction with land stations. And by 1907 Marconi succeeded in spanning the vast Atlantic, transmitting signals from England to Newfoundland and laying the foundation for world-wide wireless.

By this time many scientists and technicians had been attracted to the virgin field of wireless communication. Originally the invention of Guglielmo Marconi, wireless communication now began to represent the combined efforts of many pioneers. Thus an Englishman, Sir Oliver Lodge; Dr. M. I. Pupin, an American, and several others contributed the principle of tuning, without which wireless communication would be impracticable. Another Englishman, Professor Fleming, contributed the basic vacuum tube, which was later developed by the American De Forest and ingeniously applied by the young American student, Armstrong. Vacuum tube improvements owe their conception to many American technicians, led by Dr. Irving Langmuir of the General Electric Research Laboratory. Alexanderson, another American, developed a remarkable generator known as the Alexanderson alternator, which made possible reliable and economical radio communication over great distances.

Public Radio Began in 1920

A variation of wireless telegraphy, first tried out two decades ago by the Danish Poulsen, made it possible to transmit the spoken word instead of the dots and dashes of the telegraph code. Up till the World War, however, wireless telephony was crude and impracticable. But the remarkable technical advances made during the trying days of conflict soon placed wireless telephony on a practical basis. Indeed, the Atlantic was experimentally spanned by wireless telephony in 1915, by American telephone engineers, and by the end of the war wireless telephony was available for reliable communication over considerable distances and even on aircraft.

In 1920 the Westinghouse engineers conducted a series of experiments with wireless telephony from a laboratory in East Pittsburgh. Wireless amateurs, then possessing receivers for the purpose of listening to dot-dash messages, were asked to listen in on the wireless telephone experiments. In due course the Westinghouse tests included the transmission of phonograph records; and the novelty of talks and music coming over the air soon caused laymen to buy and install inexpensive radio receivers.

Organized Broadcasting

And having created a large audience for its experimental transmission, the Westinghouse organization soon felt duty bound to place its experiments on a schedule basis. Singers and speakers were now introduced in place of phonograph music. And radio broadcasting came into existence with a rapidity of growth that stands without parallel. From a single experimental station, radio broadcasting grew to hundreds of stations dotting the entire country.

In April, 1919, out of the necessity of centralizing America's wireless or radio efforts, and at the invitation of the United States Government, the Radio Corporation of America was formed. This company immediately purchased the property of the British-owned Marconi Company, secured rights under all important radio patents, and quickly placed in commercial service high-power stations connecting across the Atlantic and Pacific oceans to distant lands. Thus came about our American world-wide network which makes New York and San Francisco the centers of radio communication.

With the advent of radio broadcasting, the Radio Corporation of America in conjunction with its associates, the Westinghouse and the General Electric companies, established a chain of broadcasting stations to serve the American public.

Miss Buella Dibble is back in school after a two weeks absence due to having the mumps.

The condition of our county highway south of Salem is such that the Mid-West Dairy Co's. truck is unable to haul the milk from Salem to Chicago and the Company has been separating and hauling the cream to Whetland for the past week.

Arthur Bloss being confined to the house with mumps, Milward Bloss is substituting on the rural route for the past few days, the condition of the roads have been such that it was impossible to cover all cross roads, making extra drive and re-selling in a few on the route not receiving their mail regularly.

Quite a number was out to the meeting of the Royal Neighbors on Thursday evening.

The seventh grade pupils wrote on their final examinations on Friday.

Marjorie Nevins, Margaret McCormick and Mary Grace McCormick are out of school on account of mumps.

Unproductive Land

Pontine marshes form a part of the district known in Italy as the Campagna di Roma, which is situated between Rome and the coast. Efforts have been made to drain the district, but without much success, and at the present time the district is used almost exclusively as a grazing ground for cattle.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"SUBSTANCE" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, March 13.

The Golden Text was from Proverbs 22:4, "By humility and the fear of the Lord are riches, and honour, and life."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "For all things are for your sakes, that the abundant grace might through the thanksgiving of many redound to the glory of God. For which cause we faint not; but though our outward man perish, yet the inward man is renewed day by day. For our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory; While we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen: for the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal (II Cor. 4:15-18).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "That which material sense calls intangible, is found to be substance. What to material sense seems substance, becomes nothingness, as the sense-dream vanishes and reality appears" (p. 312).

Lake Villa News

Mrs. T. B. Rhoades and Olive spent a few days recently with relatives in Chicago.

Miss Warner went to her home in Whitewater, Wis., on Friday, and returned Sunday evening.

The Bunco Club was entertained at the Tweed home last Thursday by Mrs. Frances Barnstable, and a splendid time was enjoyed.

Mrs. Tweed and Mrs. H. J. Nelson spent last Friday afternoon with Mrs. C. B. Hamlin.

R. E. Hussey returned last week from a trip through the western lumber district. He also visited his mother in California.

Mrs. Murphy and Mrs. Barnstable visited Mrs. Johnson at the Victory Memorial hospital on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Douglas, of Waukegan, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Douglas.

The next meeting of the Mother's Club will be held at the church because of the nature of the meeting. A dentist from Waukegan will address the parents on the care of children's teeth, and the Parent-teacher associations of our neighboring schools. Monday, Sand Lake and Cedar Lake are especially invited to be present. Exact date will be announced next week.

Next Sunday evening, March 20, pictures illustrating the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. will be shown, through the courtesy of Mr. Andrews, who is manager of this district. They show different steps in the work and use of the telephone and should be very instructive as well as interesting. The public is very cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. E. J. Murrell has purchased the Potter restaurant building, and expects to open it up as a first class dry goods store very soon. John Effinger will be in partnership with a line of hardware. Mr. and Mrs. Donaldson, who have had the restaurant for the past three years, have not yet decided what they will do, and we hope that they will decide to locate in our own village.

Ed. Tedee was in Chicago over the week end.

The picture, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," given for the 8th grade at the church Saturday night was very good and a good-sized audience was present.

The plan of annexing Sand Lake school district to our district is being carefully considered, and is receiving favorable comment and consideration. This would mean enlarging our present school, which is also planning on adding a gymnasium during the coming year.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Avery attended the funeral of Joseph Glynn at Waukegan on Sunday. He will be remembered as the father of Miss Lela Glynn, a former teacher here.

Mrs. Lee Sherwood received the gift of a piano from her parents last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Edwards entertained guests over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Leonard, of Round Lake and Mr. and Mrs. James Leonard, of Chicago, spent Sunday with their relatives here.

Howard Dibble, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Dibble, who has been quite ill with pneumonia, is improving.

Our side roads are almost impassable, and we surely will appreciate good roads again.

Good J. O. Johnson, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Victory Memorial hospital three weeks ago, is expected home this week.

(Too late for last week.)

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Avery were in Waukegan on business Wednesday this week.

Miss Warner and Miss Scott spent Saturday in Waukegan.

Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Hooper had Mrs. Hooper's brothers and sisters with their families, all of Chicago, as guests over Sunday.

Dr. and Mrs. Weise, of Chicago, spent Sunday with Mrs. Weise's brother, J. M. Cannon and family.

Mrs. Anna Belek, who has been in the home of her brother, John Nadr, all winter, returned to her home at Fox River Grove last Friday. Mrs. Nadr, Frank Nadr and Fred Hamlin accompanied her.

Mrs. Val Weber and sister Vera Jones, were Waukegan visitors Saturday.

Mrs. Helm's sister, Anna Sleck, of Waukegan, spent a couple days last week at the Helm home.

Albert Douglas and Mrs. Oscar

Douglas were Waukegan visitors one day last week.

The Ladies' Aid Society will hold a social meeting with Mrs. Fred Hamlin on Wednesday evening, March 16th. Everyone is very welcome and ladies will please notice that it is an evening meeting instead of afternoon.

Mrs. J. O. Johnson is recovering at the Victory Memorial hospital and expects to be home soon.

The meeting at the church on Sunday afternoon and evening was a very profitable and enjoyable one. The speakers on the program were all specialists in their line and surely had an inspiring message. About seventy-five enjoyed the picnic supper in the basement dining room and the ladies here served coffee.

Oscar Douglas moved his household goods by truck Monday to Waukegan where he is employed by the Soo Line. We wish them success and happiness in their new home.

Billy McFadden, who has been unable to do his work at the Soo Line pump-house recently because of illness, is back at work.

H. D. Hughes Writes From Lynn Haven, Fla.

Lynn Haven, Florida
March 12, 1927.

Some of your readers may be interested in hearing just how things are progressing in Florida. We never had a more enjoyable winter since we first built in St. Andrews. In 1912. We sold out while the boom was yet alive, and last winter built a concrete house here in Lynn Haven, where the soil has a little more substance, so that we have potatoes that we can eat before March "goes out like a lamb." We had a month of hot dry weather just after setting 500 cabbage plants in December or they would have been headed by now, as they are, we can use them in a week's time. Second plantings of radish and peas are coming on nicely, with peas in bloom. The roads of Florida are being built about as fast as in any other state. The Dixie from Jacksonville south is completed pretty well down to land end. The Tamiami Trail from Miami to Tampa across the everglades will be completed this spring, according to late reports. The Old Spanish Trail from Pensacola to Jacksonville is being pushed all along its length, bridges being built to take the place of ferries, some of them costing millions of dollars. And now the Gulf Coast Highway from Tampa north and west to Pensacola is building in sections that before long will be connected up into one continuous circle of paved road all around the state.

We had with us for two months this winter a cousin whose parents, Thomas, Martha Evans used to live on what was known as "The Bank Nell place," just west of "Bean Hill." About sixty-five years ago they moved to Alma, Wis., and got rich there, or at least this branch of the family has a thousand acres of farms up at Durand, Wis. Their "auction" was the first one I ever attended, and Ira R. Webb was the auctioneer. And about that time the first house Ira R. Webb built on their old farm, was skidded "cross lots" to the little farm that William Avery had bought, just north of where my youngest son now lives. I think it was Nell that pulled it down many years after and rebuilt on the same spot. There has been many less tourists in Florida this year than last. Many vacant houses and rooms in this city and rents were about one third of what they were then, as we hear from other cities.

In 1860 my father sowed wheat the 3rd of March and threshed a big crop. In about 1877 we sowed oats the 15 of March and it yielded 87 bushels per acre. Next we ever had. One year I planted potatoes the 8th of March and they got frozen when about 6 inches high. As we hear it, the woodchuck told a big one this year, almost as big as the fisherman sometimes tell here or elsewhere. It is astonishing how fast a fish can grow after he is hooked, and gets almost as big as the one that got away.

H. D. Hughes

P. S. In 1881 we could not plow till May 5. Snow banks fence high then. Had fair crops too.

Utilities Officials Oppose 'Home Rule' Measures

Springfield, Illinois, March 16. Leading officials of public utility companies of Illinois appeared this afternoon before a joint committee of the House and Senate considering bills pending for "Home Rule" by municipalities of public utility companies.

These officials, in the capital to attend the seventh annual joint convention of the Illinois State Electric, Illinois Gas and Illinois Electric Railways Associations, here Thursday and Friday, told the committee passage of the "Home Rule" measures would seriously hamper the rendering of efficient public utility service to the people of Illinois.

"Practically all Illinois utility companies now serve more than one municipality and one company serves more than 300 towns," said R. V. Prather, Secretary of the convention associations. "It would be impossible for these companies to obtain money at the same reasonable rates of finance extensions and improvements if they had three hundred different ideas to cope with. Also, it would seriously impair the services, which are now unexcelled in the world."

"Rural electrification has made rapid progress in Illinois under state utility regulation," he said, "and farm leaders have hailed cheap electric power as an important factor in reducing the cost of farm operation and making farm life easier. With municipalities in control of the operation, rates and service of the electric power companies, farmers would have no voice or representation in the control of the companies such as they now have through the Illinois commerce commission."

"Creation of the commerce commission was one of the most far-reaching steps in the advancement and development of industry ever taken in Illinois. To hamper the commission 'Home Rule' would be a step backward."

Climate Chief Thing in California

So Writes W. R. Williams to His Friend, C. N. Lux.

Los Angeles, Calif.

March 12, 1927

Mr. Chas. Lux Jr.
Dear Friend Chas.

I could save time by writing an article on sunny California to the Antioch News, but I prefer writing individually. The chief thing about California is the climate. Although we have struck the rainy season, which lasts from January to April 1st, provided they are fortunate enough to get it, California has not had a good soaking rain spell for several years, and when it rains it pours. We have been out in one of them so we know. The city of Los Angeles has grown very fast in the last ten years. The early settled section when laid out did not expect such a rapid growth and the city engineers did not provide ample sewage or storm drains to take care of the water for the new settled districts and the streets are regular rivers making it almost impossible to cross the streets in some sections.

We have a wonderful view from our apartment which is on the sixth floor. We chose this high elevation in order to see the city and surrounding country. California is subdivided in home lots and towns so closely connected that you can scarcely discern the ending of one and the beginning of another. We are surrounded by mountains and the ocean. Mountains range from 1000 to 12000 feet elevation. Hollywood is about 5 miles from here but from our windows appears to be about 3 or 4 blocks away.

We have a cozy apartment, but see very little of it through the day. Seven o'clock get our breakfast and then start on a trip to some city or the mountains, and get back all hours of the night.

Our last trip was a dinner party at the Brandstatters Cafe, Montmartre in Hollywood, had the pleasure of eating along side of movie actors of note, with Chas. Chopman, wife and her mother. Mrs. Chopman is rather tall, but quite slender. Dressed in white ermine, red cap, and diamond bracelets on her ankles.

I am enclosing a postal card under separate cover, together with western broadcasting stations which you hear very little from.

A greater part of the folks on the postal card are actors as this is their headquarters for luncheons. We visited the Italian Vineyard Co's. Vineyard of 10,000 acres, all wine grapes which are shipped to Eastern markets. They are very strict in Los Angeles on the liquor question, but there seems to be plenty of it, if you know where to get it.

We traveled over some very hazardous places by rail, while crossing the mountains, one place in particular at Blue Canyon, in the American River canyon. 14000 feet above sea level, the two outer tracks had been washed out, leaving a span of suspended rails and ties intact for more than 50 rods, and the River Canyon 14000 feet below. This portion washed out or slid down the valley carrying thousands of tons of rocks and trees to the river below. Think our time is about up will start for home in another week if nothing happens. Want to see one more industry and that is mining, have an opportunity to go in to a gold mine if I can arrange to do so. Have walked the ocean beach for miles in search for moon stones but they tell me there are very few specimens in this locality. Wigley Junior has purchased Catalina Island also discovered gold and they think it will pan out good. We were over there a week ago, this island is 22 miles long, and mostly all mountains. I think this will hold you till I get home, and the story I have told you is not much worse than those told by Judge Tarbell, wonder if he is home yet. I have lost his address. Will not stay here long enough to get an answer back to this address as we are planning to go to Oregon from here and see the fisheries at Portland they have unearthed seven specimens of ancient mammals at Long Beach, they average 40-50 feet in length and they are being assembled and mounted for exhibition, hope to see some good weather when we return. Yours truly,
W. R. Williams.

Andrew Jackson's Politics

Andrew Jackson is popularly supposed to have started the modern Democratic party. It was to a large extent the successor of the Jeffersonians. But Old Hickory himself did not apply the name "Democratic" to his followers. During his Presidency and after his retirement to the Hermitage, in all his correspondence he called himself a Republican and spoke of his party as the Republican party.—Pathfinder Magazine.

PROLOGUE—While dependent over the enforced hiding of her name, Jim Dallas, alias in self defense of Homer Parkinson, member of an influential family, Sybil Saunders, popular actress, is engaged to play Viola in a charity performance of "Twelfth Night" on Gulf Island, on the Maine coast. In the company are Sybil's bosom friend, Anne Tracy, Anne's brother Joe, young waitress, and Alker Stokes, an actor infatuated with Sybil.

CHAPTER I—After the play, which is a big hit, Wally Shine, official photographer, learns something of the jealousy existing in the company.

CHAPTER II—Hugh Bassett, director of the play, and Anne Tracy's fiancé, tells Joe he has heard he is spying on Sybil in an effort to learn the whereabouts of Jim Dallas and earn the reward offered by the Parkinson family. The boy denies it.

CHAPTER III—Joe Tracy is arranging for a vacation trip to Anne he believes his fiancée toward Sybil. Stokes tells Sybil he has news of Jim Dallas, and to secure privacy they arrange to meet in a small summer house.

CHAPTER IV—The sound of a pistol shot starts the assembled company. Investigation shows a revolver has been taken from a desk in the library. Flora Stokes wife bursts in with the announcement that Sybil has been shot and her body carried off by the tide.

CHAPTER V—Flora Stokes tells Bassett she saw Sybil shot but did not see her murderer. Bassett notifies the sheriff, Abel Williams. He arrives with Dawson district attorney, and a man called Patrick. All the company is assembled here, with the exception of Joe Tracy presumably on his trip. Flora gives her evidence, and the authorities arrange so that no one can leave the island.

CHAPTER VI—Discussing the tragedy with Dawson and Bassett, Williams voices the opinion that Flora Stokes is the guilty person, the deed being actuated by jealousy. While they are talking, the sound of a crash in the living room makes them hasten there.

CHAPTER VII

Of all the people gathered in the house that evening Anne had been the most silent. Her ravaged face, the contours broken by gray hollows, bearing the stamp of shock and horror, had been unnoticed among the other faces. Now and then a pitying glance had been directed to her, grief as Sybil's friend must have added a last unbearable pang to the tragedy.

After her question to Flora her mind had seemed to blur and cease to function. She had run from the house not knowing what she did, gone blither and blither with the others, looking speaking, listening in a blind daze. It was not till they returned to the living room that her faculties began to clear and coordinate.

Her thoughts circled round the image of Joe as she had last seen him—the vision of him as someone strange and sinister. And the boat—the boat with only Gabriel in it—it kept coming up like a picture revolving on a wheel—going and returning, going and returning. Had he stayed, and what for? That question revolved with the picture of the boat.

She thought of telling Bassett and gave that up—with the police expected she could not get him alone, and why add to his burden with her suspicions? Yes, that was what it was—nothing but a suspicion. She had no certainty; Joe might have been in the boat, Joe might have got off the island some other way. Tomorrow something might come to light that would make these hideous fancies seem like the dreams of delirium. That was the state of mind she tried to maintain when she went upstairs and overheard a man was on guard at the causeway.

With that knowledge her outlook changed. Her passive role was over. If Joe had done it and if he was on the island he would try to get off at low tide. It was safe to assume that he was outside, hidden till the causeway was open. To go out to find him would be useless, he would never reveal himself to her, and if she was seen suspicious would instantly be aroused. She must get somewhere that would command the causeway and its approaches. The best place—the only place—was the living room entrance. From there she could see in all directions, the balcony end, the kitchen wing, the pine grove. She would try to wave him back, possibly get to him—she had to take her chances and trust to Heaven.

"And you know it wasn't there when you looked after the shooting?" Rawson went to the desk as he spoke. "I can swear it wasn't."

The tide was at full ebb at mid night. At a quarter before she mooned. She took from the bureau a book she had been reading—if she could anyone she could say she had come down to find it and opened her door with the stealth of a burglar. A dead silence reigned as she stole down the stairs and into the living room.

At the entrance, pressed against the door, she looked out. It was a world of white enchantment, breathlessly still. She could see the patterned surfaces of leaves, the cracks and fissures of the rocks. Below, the channel lay almost bare, pools glistening like dropped mirrors, wounds of mud casting inky shadows.

She could hear the murmur of the men's voices from the open library windows, and like the throbbing of a muffled engine, the beating of her own heart.

Into that deep enveloping quietude came a sound, so faint, so indistinctly small and hushed, that only expectant ears could have caught it. It came from the room behind her, and turning, she slid back against the wall, her body black against its blackness. The sound continued, the opening of a door opposite, the door into the kitchen wing. It seemed no door in the world had ever opened so slowly—creaking, stopping, resuming, dying away. She could see nothing, for the darkness of the gallery lay impenetrable over that furtive entrance.

There was a footstep, light as the fall of a leaf, and she saw him coming toward her in that high luminous pallor from the windows. He was like a shadow, so evenly dark, a shape without detail, moving with a shadow's noiseless passage. She saw the outline of the cap on his head and that he carried his shoes in one hand.

She came forward with a hand raised for caution, sending her voice before her in an agonized whisper: "Go back, Joe. The causeway's watched. You can't get over that way, Joe."

He was gone, a fleet flying, vaulting back into the darkness under the gallery. Out of it came the soft closing of the door.

The room swayed, pale light and darkness swam and convulsed. She knew she was near a table and put out her hand to steady herself by it, something solid to hold to for one minute. The polished surface slid under her fingers and she groped out with the hand that held the book. The book slipped from her grasp, fell with a thud like a thunderclap, and a grasping search to save it swept a lamp crashing to the floor. Panic dispelled her faintness and she made a rush for the door. She had gained it. Her fingers clutched round the knob, as she heard the steps of the men in the hall and knew it was too late to escape.

They burst in, thrust into the room's dim quiet as if shot by a blast.

"It's nothing," she called, hearing her voice thin and hoarse. "Nothing's happened. It's only Anne Tracy."

The lights leaped out and she saw them, Bassett with his hand on the electric button, stricken still, looking this way and that. His eye found her first, backed against the door, a small green-clad figure with an ashen face. "What's this mean?" said Rawson.

"Nothing." She was afraid the handle would rattle with the shaking of her hand so let it go. "I upset the lamp in the dark. I didn't see it, that's all."

"What are you doing here?" "I came down to get my book. I forgot and left it when I went upstairs."

She could get her breath now and her voice was under control. She felt strength oozing back into her body and with it courage.

"You're as white as a sheet," Williams blurted out.

"Did something frighten you?" demanded Bassett.

"No, but a sort of faintness came over me, there by the table, and I grabbed at it and upset the lamp."

Rawson looked at the table with the shattered fragments of the lamp beside it. It was not far from the entrance door.

"Did you see anything—anything outside?"

"No, not a thing and I didn't hear a sound."

"What do you suppose made you feel faint?"

"Oh!" She dared to make a gesture, upraised hands that dropped abruptly. "That's there been enough here to make anybody faint?"

"You've got to remember, Rawson," said Bassett who thought the man's insistence unnecessary, "what a shock this has been—especially to Miss Tracy who was Miss Saunders' friend."

"I remember." Then to Anne: "Miss Tracy, if you should withhold any information from us you'd get yourself into a very uncomfortable position."

"I wouldn't, I wouldn't," she breathed.

Rawson's glance remained on her, dubiously intent. Bassett noted it with a resentment he found it difficult to hide.

"You can absolutely rely on Miss Tracy," he said. "She would be perfectly frank with you if she had anything to tell."

"No doubt, no doubt," said the other, and walked to the entrance. "I'm going out to have a look around." On the sill he turned and addressed Anne. "I gave some instructions to you ladies and I expected to have them followed. You'll please remember them in the future."

He passed out into the brilliancy of the moonlight. Now that he was gone Bassett felt he must make her understand. He had been astonished at what she had done. It was so unlike her, a disobedience of orders at such a time as this.

"You must do what they tell you, Anne. They have to make these rules and it's up to us to keep them."

"I will now, you can trust me. Mr. Williams, you can see how it was. I couldn't sleep and my mind was full of this awful thing, and I thought if I could put it on something else—get free from my thoughts even for a few moments!"

Williams granted his comprehension. He felt rather tenderly toward her, she looked so small and wan and her voice was so pleading.

"Where was your book?" he asked. "On the table behind you. I was feeling round for it and I think I pushed it off with the lamp."

"What was the name of it?" "Victory," by Joseph Conrad.

He went to the table. His back turned, she and Bassett exchanged a long look. Williams picked up the book and came back with it.

"Here it is," he said, giving it to her. "And just make a note of the fact that you're not to go round the house at night after books or anything else."

She assured him she would not, she would give them no more trouble, and opening the door she slipped away. They remained without speaking till she came out on the gallery and walked to her room.

"Well," said Williams, "her book was there."

Bassett stared at him: "Was there? Why shouldn't it be? Good God! You have any idea she was lying? If you have, get it out of your head. I've known Miss Tracy for three years and she could no more say what wasn't true than—well, she couldn't, that's all."

"I don't think she did. It sounded to me a perfectly straight story."

"It was. You can take my word for that."

They were back in the library when Rawson reappeared with Shine, Shine, unable to sleep, had been sitting by his window when Rawson, scouting, had stopped to inquire if he had seen anyone. Shine had not, but had volunteered to join in a hunt and the two had been about the house and the immediate vicinity. Nothing had been discovered and Patrick had seen no sign of life or heard no sound. Now they had come back for the electric torch and were going to extend their search. A person concerned on the seaward side of the island might be moving at this hour when the causeway was free. Bassett said he would go with them and the three men left the room by one of the long windows.

Williams opened the library door and turned off the lights. The noise of the departing trio would suggest to anyone on the watch that the house was free of police supervision and there might be developments. He took the desk chair as easier to rise from than the deep-seated leather ones and settled himself to a resume of what they had so far gathered.

He was convinced of Mrs. Stokes' guilt and ran over the reasons. A hysterical woman, frantic with jealousy—that alone was enough. But that woman had been the only member of the party who at the time of the shooting had been some distance from the house. She had taken the pistol with the intention of using it if an occasion offered. The occasion had offered. Miss Saunders, unable to resist the beauty of the evening, had gone to the Point alone. He set no store by Rawson's opinion that the woman's state of mind was too genuinely distracted. He considered it as part of a premeditated plan carried through with nerve and skill. She would have known that the report of the pistol would have been heard at the house. This, when Miss Saunders did not return, would have suggested foul play. And she, Mrs. Stokes, was the only person out on the island. A later entrance, with an assumption of ignorance, would have turned suspicion on her like a pointing finger. She was too intelligent for that.

It was at this juncture that he suddenly cocked his head and let his hands drop softly to the arms of the chair. From the stairs outside came a faint creak, a pause and then again, step by step a bare or stockinged foot in gradual descent.

The big man arose as noiselessly as he could and made for the hall. But his bulk and his boots were not adapted to rapid movements or silent surprise. As he reached the hall he heard the pattering flight of light feet and cursed under his breath as he felt for the electric button. Her room—the one he had seen Miss Pinkney put her in—was just beyond the stair-head to the right. And her husband's—he turned and faced the secretive panels of its closed door.

Williams dropped his head and trod thoughtfully back to the library, but this time he left the hall lights on. Also he lit the library ones and allowed himself the goings of a cigar. "She won't try that again tonight," he said to himself and dropped into an easy chair.

Then Stokes must know. They had had opportunity for private conference in that hour after the murder when the others were out of the house. She had either told him or he had accused her; for all they knew he might have seen her do it. Anyway she wanted to get speech with him and it might be support, counsel, the matching up of their stories—but whatever it was she must have been in dire straits to take such a risk.

Williams smoked on, comfortably sprawled in the deep chair, thinking out a line of attack on the Stokeses. (TO BE CONTINUED.)

NASH

Leads the World in Motor Car Value

Steering is never tiring—when you drive a Nash

A cheerful willingness to answer your hand on the wheel is one of the very first things you notice, when you drive a Nash.

In many ways, Nash has provided for the ease and comfort of the arms that steer the car. In getting into or out of a tight place at the curb you will particularly notice the slight effort needed.

When you turn a corner, you'll welcome the shorter wind-up of the steering wheel.

In an emergency, this short turn of the wheel means quick responsiveness—and an accident averted. Nash steering is easier—faster—less tiring on the arms and wrists—indefinitely safer in dense traffic.

Nothing has been spared to build a more delightful car to drive. This steering mechanism is, beyond question, the most expensive type built today for cars in the Nash price field.

Like the steering, every detail in the car reflects the Nash determination to lead the world in motor car value.

Another instance of the outstanding excellence in Nash design is the 7-bearing motor—without a doubt the smoothest type in all the world.

There are a number of exceptional values left. Some of the best piano bargains are yet on the floor. A few good radio sets and phonographs are priced at absolute rock-bottom in an attempt to save shipping expenses back to Chicago. Hundreds of people in this vicinity have taken advantage of the remarkable values we are offering. Come now while a few of the best things may yet be had.

The first buyer to offer $150.00 for it can have it, the credit buyer receiving the same consideration as the cash buyer. We would rather pass the savings on to a local buyer than pay freight charges to Chicago.
